WHY SWARTHMORE?

A few things that make Swarthmore, Swarthmore.

Small, collaborative, and brimming with opportunity.

Students can choose from 40 programs of study and more than 600 courses at Swarthmore, with even more classes available at Haverford and Bryn Mawr colleges through the Tri-College Consortium or at the University of Pennsylvania. Nearly 40% of our classes have fewer than 10 students enrolled, so students are able to easily pursue opportunities and forge close relationships with faculty and staff.

We provide an idyllic home in the backyard of one of America's greatest cities.

We're easily accessible to Philadelphia via a 25-minute train ride straight from the campus station. And better yet, students get free, rides on SEPTA, our region's public transit system. Students enjoy a residential living experience and wide-open spaces in a 425-acre arboretum campus. They also have access to world-class public art, professional sports, great restaurants, and a thriving music scene. Philadelphia and nearby New York and Washington, D.C. offer a wealth of opportunities for internships, research positions, and employment.

Guided by our Quaker roots.

Swarthmore was founded in 1864 as a Quaker institution, and while we are officially independent, Quaker values of peace, integrity, and community continue to imbue life at the College.

Our students are free to take academic risks.

A student's first semester at Swarthmore is pass/fail, meaning students can take courses outside their comfort zone without worrying about grades. Learning for learning's sake takes center stage. This practice also nurtures a collaborative, not competitive, academic environment — as well as an opportunity for students to adjust to college life.

Fall 2023

Dear Colleague:

Greetings from Swarthmore College. We are looking forward to connecting with you as we embark on another academic year. Whether that's while on the road at school visits and attending professional conferences, or on Swarthmore's beautiful 425-acre arboretum campus just 11 miles outside of Philadelphia. Please feel free to call, write, or email me (jbock2@swarthmore.edu) if you have questions or comments.

We are aware that the landscape of college admissions has changed due to the Supreme Court ruling on race-conscious admissions. Swarthmore will continue our holistic application review process that takes a student's full lived experience into account, however, we will do so without regard to race. I echo President Valerie Smith's recent address to the Swarthmore community that we will continue to lean into our mission and, "will persist in fostering a diverse, inclusive community." We also remain committed to increasing access and navigating barriers for students.

Swarthmore will remain test optional for the 2023-24 and 2024-25 application cycles while we continue our longitudinal study of the practice. Students will have the option to submit scores to us, and they will have the option for us to not consider scores already submitted. Students who either did not take a test or choose not to share results with us will not be penalized in the admissions process.

The average financial aid award for the 2022-23 academic year is $62,570 toward the asking price of $77,354 and 51% of students receive financial aid. Students, particularly those from low-income backgrounds, should not remove high-priced schools from their lists before taking a closer look at financial aid policies. Swarthmore's financial aid is need-based. We provide loan-free grant aid that meets 100% of a student's determined need — including undocumented and DACA students.

In addition to financial aid, students will continue to find support through their time on campus, whether through our cash-free campus policy which means no additional fees for things like laundry, printing, lab classes, or attending campus events or through our Textbook Affordability Program where all students will receive a $790 allowance for required course materials as part of tuition charges. New this year, all students will receive a free SEPTA Key — an unlimited pass to take public transportation in and around the region and the City of Philadelphia.

Swarthmore College enters our 18th year as a QuestBridge partner for the 2023-24 academic year, and we also continue to read applications from all undocumented and DACA students on a need-blind basis for both first-year and transfer admission. We hope you will remind your students that we have a long-standing commitment to provide financial aid to all students whose potential family resources fall short of our charges.

Please let us know how we might participate in any special programs or workshops at your school or organization, and how we can continue to strengthen our relationships with you and your students. Our regional deans look forward to working with you and your students.

Sincerely,

James L. Bock '90

STUDENT SUPPORT

Our robust student services help us nurture a diverse student body.

Undocumented students:

The Dean's Office supports undocumented students with their specific questions and concerns, and a student-run organization provides community.

Student Emergency Fund:

Students who find themselves facing an urgent financial shortfall for expenses not included in the cost of attendance receive monetary support when they need it.

First-Gen/Low-Income (FLI):

Swarthmore's FLI Program assists students in building community, finding support, and taking advantage of College resources while bringing together FLI students, staff, and faculty.

Campus spaces and programs:

Swarthmore supports students from diverse backgrounds with programs sponsored by the Black Cultural Center, Women's Resource Center, Hormel-Nguyen Intercultural Center, Interfaith Center, and International Student Center. We also offer services, events, and resources that support the personal and intellectual development of Asian American, Latinx, multiracial, Native American, LGBTQ+, low-income, international, first-generation college students, and students with disabilities.

Money for textbooks:

Every student receives a $790 annual credit for required course materials through Swarthmore's Textbook Affordability Program.

Mentoring:

Initiatives like the Richard Rubin Scholar Mentoring Program and Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship Program provide thoughtful mentoring and significant funding to conduct research, attend conferences, and pursue professional-development opportunities.

Internship and summer research funding:

The College provides funding for internships and summer research that are open to all students who wish to apply. — so that students can pursue nonprofit or community work without having to compromise on pay.

Cash-free campus and cash-free consortium:

There are no "additional fees" at Swarthmore. Events and services like movie nights, performing arts tickets, laundry, printing, and athletic games are free to all students. There are also no extra fees for lab classes. In addition, Swatties attend most events for free and use their meal plans at Haverford and Bryn Mawr colleges.

Swarthmore Summer Scholars Program (S³P)

This program is designed for incoming first-year students who are the first in their family to attend college, come from a low-income background, or have had limited STEM-related preparation, and have a self-described interest in STEM fields. S³P provides coursework in STEM and writing, along with mentorship from faculty and staff that lasts throughout the student's time at the College. All expenses are paid for the program, and a stipend is provided.

FINANCIAL AID

We believe students should be able to fully realize their educational potential regardless of financial circumstances.

✓

NEED-BLIND ADMISSIONS

Our admissions review does not take the ability to pay into consideration for U.S. citizens, permanent residents, eligible non-citizens (such as refugees), and undocumented students who graduate from a high school in the U.S.

✓

WE MEET 100% OF FINANCIAL NEED

Swarthmore adds up the costs of attendance (tuition, activities fee, housing, food, transportation, and personal expenses), determines what the family can reasonably pay (from $0 to total cost), and provides a financial aid decision for the difference between the total cost of attendance and the family contribution.

✓

LOAN-FREE
FINANCIAL AID
DECISIONS

Swarthmore's financial aid decisions do not include loans. While some families choose to take out loans to pay the family contribution, all Swarthmore financial aid decisions are composed of grants (which do not have to be repaid) and an opportunity to earn money while working a part-time College job.

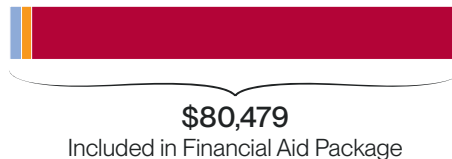

SAMPLE AID DECISIONS*

Explore what a real Swarthmore financial aid decision looks like for students and families with different financial and personal circumstances. You will also see that Swarthmore includes non-billed costs (like personal expenses) into the equation for providing aid.

Example #1: Ben

Ben's parents earn about $20,000 annually. Ben is a first-generation student who has one younger sibling not in college. He receives a Federal Pell Grant. Ben and his parents will contribute $0 toward the cost of Swarthmore. Swarthmore's total cost of attendance (including non-billed costs like transportation and personal expenses) for 2022–2023 is $80,479. John's total financial aid package is $80,479, which consists of the Federal Pell Grant, a Swarthmore Scholarship, and an opportunity to find a part-time College job.

ADMISSION TO SWARTHMORE

A streamlined process that supports low-income and first-generation students

Application fee waivers:

Students can select their need for a fee waiver on their application for admission. Students may also use SwatPass, an online tool that allows students to answer a few questions and self-identify their need for a fee waiver.

Optional testing and self-reported test scores:

Standardized test scores are not required for students applying for fall 2024 and fall 2025 admissions. Students who choose to submit scores may self-report them in lieu of submitting and paying for official scores from a testing agency.

Undocumented student policy:

Guided by our Quaker heritage, we admit and provide financial aid to undocumented and DACA-eligible first-year and transfer students the same way we do any domestic student.

Videos:

All students have the option to submit a video response as an application supplement to give us unique insight into their thought processes or experiences.

Enrollment fees:

Swarthmore automatically waives enrollment deposits for qualified students, and we do not ask for a housing deposit.

Swatlight & Swatstruck:

We believe that every admitted student should have the ability to visit campus. Each spring, we typically host an all-expenses-paid trip to Swarthmore for admitted students who are the first in their families to attend college, come from low-income backgrounds, or have been working with a community-based organization.

Discover Swarthmore:

Each fall, we host 150+ high school seniors with preference given to students who are the first in their families to attend college, students from low-income backgrounds, and students who might not otherwise be able to afford a trip to campus. The program is an all-expenses-paid trip to the College, and we accept nominations from counselors and advisors beginning in February each year.
